Award for home health technology

BiancaMed founder Dr Conor Heneghan has won the NovaUCD 2006 Innovation Award for his health monitoring technology.

Dr Heneghan was honoured for "his success in the commercialisation of research undertaken at UCD's School of Electrical, Electronic and Mechanical Engineering".

BiancaMed, a NovaUCD company which employs five people and has raised funds of $400,000 (€316,000), was founded by Dr Heneghan and Dr Philip de Chazal in 2002.

The company is targeting the home health sector and is developing a product that will allow ultra-convenient heart and respiration monitoring at home.
